Scholarship Application, 2022 Conference

IHLRN scholarships are intended to provide financial support to new and existing members whose financial situation would make it difficult to attend the conference without financial assistance. These awards may cover only a portion of the conference fees, depending on the budget and number of applicants. Application deadline is August 1, 2022.

IHLRN is looking for people who will maintain and build upon the legacy of IHLRN by contributing or helping during the conference. Our guidelines for determining financial assistance awards include:

- Person indicates interest in giving a workshop
- Person indicates interest in assisting with conference in other specific ways
- Professional orientation – person will use conference experience in a professional capacity
- Diversity – IHLRN is interested in building a multi-cultural community
- Financial need
- History with IHLRN

Financial assistance awards will not be offered to a person more than once every three years. Assistance is intended to help with conference fees only and not travel expenses.

If you have questions about the process or your application, contact Cindy Rosner at 608-249-7480, or email at crosner@tds.net
